LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—With records falling like straws in a hurricane, the Olympic games today offered a rematch race at 200 meters between the two "fastest humans," Ralph Metcalfe and Eddie Tolan, with a hearty dash of foreign competition thrown in.

But overshadowing the sprinters was the memory left with a crowd of 55,000 of the greatest 800-meter run in the history of mankind. Tom Hampson of England was the hero and his time was 1:49.8, a new world's and Olympic record.

Champions Crowned

The United States continued to pile up an unofficial scoring margin as Uncle Sam's sturdy sons and daughters went their record-breaking way. Figuring in all events, America has a total of 133½ against 47½ for Germany and 46 for France.

New champions crowned Tuesday in addition to Hampson were:

Ed Gordon, United States, broad jump, 25 feet, ¾ inches.

According to reports from out the Pulaski road, there is a big Rhode Island hen in the flock of William Gustafson that crows just like a rooster. It is quite a novelty in the flock.

In many sections of Lawrence County pedestrians are walking on the public highways three and four abreast, especially at night. This is a dangerous practice and is contrary to the state law. In many instances it is difficult for motorists to see walkers on the highways at night, and when the pedestrians persist in walking three or four abreast, they are creating a lot of danger for themselves.

Many members of the Needlework Guild of this city are using their leisure minutes this summer in making extra garments for the ingathering this fall, which will be a memorial to the founder of the organization. Mrs. John Wood Stewart. It is the aim of the Guild to have more garments turned in this winter than ever before, firstly, because the need will be greater than ever this winter, and secondly, to do honor to the noble woman, who began this work of making new garments for the needy.

McCLOSKEY SUGGESTS BONUS VETS GO HOME

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3.—Pelted rain and the suggestion by Mayor Eddie McCloskey that they disband and go home today brought the bonus-seeking veterans encamped here virtually to the point of breaking up. McCloskey's suggestion that the army disband for the present came tentatively early in the day, but the Mayor put in a telephone call for National Commander Walter Waters of the army, and announced that he "might change his mind" later. He was plainly nettled at the failure of the marchers' chief to communicate with him, and grew impatient today as his effort to reach Waters by phone netted no results after an hour's wait.

McCloskey has been a firm friend of the army since it came here, at his invitation, but today seemed convinced that it would be better for the marchers to leave Johnstown. The marchers, for their part, gave his suggestion consideration that a similar suggestion voiced by Waters did not get. Doak Carter, Waters' chief of staff and in command of the veterans here, said that the veterans would "probably move from Johnstown as quickly as possible," but hotly denied that the Bonus Expeditionary Force would break up.

Park Management Says
Heavy Losses Have Been Sustained

Cascade Park will end its season tonight. When the dance pavilion extinguishes its lights at the close of the dancing this evening, it will mark the closing of the recreation center in all departments, excepting Glenn's swimming pool, which will remain open for the remainder of the summer season, and perhaps, the picnic grove, which may be used occasionally.

Losses Sustained

Announcement that the park is forced to close because of the heavy losses sustained in every department of its operation was made today by Manager Carl L. Shaner. The decision to close the park was reached. Mr. Shaner stated, with the greatest reluctance and only after it had been thoroughly demonstrated that continuance would only result in additional heavy losses in the weeks ahead.

Butler's letter was read into the house records today by Rep. Fred Patterson, Beaver, its recipient.

Butler has other taxing ideas, too. He suggested an excise on railroad tickets to southern resorts during the winter.

broke out again today in the monasteries of Villanova College, scene of a million dollar fire yesterday.

Today's blaze started in the priests' chapel. It was extinguished after a half hour's battle by Bryn Mawr firemen. Mass being conducted in St. Thomas' chapel in one end of the ruined building was not disturbed.

Eight of the 60 firemen injured combatting yesterday's blaze were still in Bryn Mawr hospital today.

Rev. A. G. Severance, director of social relations at the institution, said no accurate estimate of yesterday's damage could be given, as many priceless paintings valuable 15th century manuscripts and unique furnishings had been destroyed.

The loss, however, is borne chiefly by the Augustinian Fathers, as the flames were confined almost entirely to their living quarters.

None of the other college buildings were damaged, although several were menaced by sparks and flaming debris for several hours.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Aug. 3.—

Though citizens of Tuckahoe, near here, are reported angry over the offer of 2000 acres of land at that place to the Bonus Army now encamped at Johnstown, Pa., Albert J. Snyder, Philadelphia attorney, who made the offer, said at his summer home here today he was moved only by a spirit of sympathy toward the veterans.

Snyder, himself a veteran, would not discuss the offer other than to say he had made it in a letter to Walter W. Waters, and that he and his associates with whom he owns the land, were merely "seeking to be helpful to the ex-soldiers in a time of stress."

Bonus Veterans Balking At

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3.—Reacting to a maze of conflicting reports concerning plans of its leaders, the bonus army was in a state of complete bewilderment today, as city fathers planned another appeal to state heads to move them.

The 3000 tattered marchers have heard within the past 24 hours apparently authentic reports that their National Commander, Walter W. Waters, wanted them to disband and go home, that he planned to colonize them in each of the forty-eight states, and that he wanted them to stay here.

Some Leave, Disgusted

They didn't know what to believe or do. Except for some who left, disagreed, the only thing they were certain of was that they wanted the bonus army to continue to exist and find some place to settle where it will not be constantly harassed by authorities.

The new move to oust the marchers from territory adjacent to Johnstown was sponsored by George W. Griffith, city councilman, and followed announcement of Water's in Washington and Annapolis that his plan to colonize the marchers on a 209 acre tract near Laurel, Md., had failed through. The council opposed movement of the veterans here from Washington on invitation of Mayor Eddie McCloskey. However, after Waters announced his plan for the Maryland colony, it decided to make the best of the situation and allow the marchers to stay without molestation for the two weeks period required to prepare the Maryland tract to receive them.

McCloskey Wavers

Latest developments put an entirely different face on the matter. Waters' announcement that he could not move his army to Maryland, and the subsequent blunt refusal which met reported suggestions of COURTHOUSE, Miami, Fla., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller today took the witness stand in the trial of Captain W. N. Lancaster on the charge that he murdered Haden Clarke, her fiancee.

She was called as the "court's witness," at the instance of the state, which sought to establish through her that Lancaster was devoted to her and frantically jealous of her.

She was the fifth witness contributing to the array of circumstantial evidence which the state hopes will send the British flier and war hero to the electric chair.

In moving that she be called as the "court's witness," State's Attorney Hawthorne expressed his belief that "in so far as possible she will testify on behalf of the defendant."

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

Beverly Hills, Cal., Aug. 3.—Saw an event this morning that took real nerve.

Twenty-six army officers from ten different countries had to ride four miles up and down hill over 22 jumps, high and solid. They drew 'em just as they started and started at five-minute intervals. No one, including the three Americans, had ever seen the horses. He had to be his own judge of the speed his horse could stand up under.

Now you talk about nerve, and no nation has any monopoly on it. They were all great, and our American army horses were fine. You would have been proud of 'em.

Don't let Brisbane or anybody else, who is going to fight the whole next war entirely with planes and poison gas, do away with the cavalry. There is certain things you can't replace the horse in, and war is one of 'em.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 3.—Kidnapped Monday night near Lewisburg, W. Va., by two youths, one of whom posed as a Treasury Department agent, George N. Davis, 60, Richmond, Va., capitalist, and R. K. Robinson, an orphanage superintendent, were released here Tuesday afternoon and their captors turned over to the police.

Their release and the capture of the kidnappers was due to the efforts of the First and Merchants National Bank. When Davis and Robinson failed to appear home last night the local bank at Lewisburg feared they were kidnapped and notified the bank here to watch out for any large check from Davis.

Guilt Is Admitted

The prisoners are: Jack Liggett, 25, a radio service man, of Charles-ton, W. Va., formerly of Lexington, Va., and William Craft, 21, alias Paul Whittington, of Wheeling, W. Va., formerly of Clifton Forge, Va.

Police said they admitted their guilt and were charged with kidnapping Davis and Robinson.

They were arrested when the quartet went to the bank this afternoon and Davis presented his personal check for $7,500 to pay for his and Robinson's release. The youths demanded $10,000, he told police, but compromised on the smaller sum. Bank officials summoned police and the alleged kidnappers were seized while they were waiting at the cashier's window. They offered no resistance.

NEIGHBORS HONOR LANDIS FAMILY

Neighbors of the Garfield avenue district and a few special guests to the number of nearly ninety last evening paid special honor to Rev. and Mrs. George M. Landis and the members of their family in a farewell dinner event.

Planned for the open air at the Landis Home, when the weather appeared threatening in the late afternoon, the William Curry property which was nearby, was very generously placed at the disposal of the neighbors and used during the dinner hour.

Garden and seasonal flowers were used for decorative purposes, adding to the appearance of the tables. The dinner was opened with Rev. Landis saying grace, after which a fine dinner was served.

At the conclusion of the dinner, Mrs. H. K. Bell assumed the duties of master of ceremonies and after a brief resumé of the reason for the occasion, introduced Mrs. Howard Magill.

Mrs. Magill in most fitting manner expressed the regard of the neighbors for the Landis family and at the conclusion, presented Mrs. Landis with a tea set on behalf of all the people participating.

Rev. Landis responded in behalf of his wife and himself, expressing their appreciation of the manner in which the neighbors had always treated them. His remarks were in keeping with the occasion and were deeply appreciated by those participating.

The dinner period was then brought to a close with the singing of "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds" with Mrs. H. H. Rosenthal leading.

The entire group then adjourned to the Landis lawn, where the balance of the evening was spent with social chat and an informal program of readings as the diversions.

Readings were presented by Mrs. Howard Magill, Todd Kirker and Rev. Landis. It was unanimously decided that the same group meet in the same way next year with the Landis family as guests. The committee that so successfully handled the affair this year, Mrs. S. Y. Bell, Mrs. C. R. Bartley and Mrs. David G. Harris were unanimously appointed as the committee on arrangements for next year.

CAL BOY HONORED BY SOCIAL EVENTS

Ellen S. Florence Fletcher of the Wright Apartments, East Washington street returned on Monday from a three weeks visit with his aunt, Mrs. S. C. Fletcher of Toledo, O., and he reports an enjoyable trip.

While there he was honored with several social events, and upon request, Bill rendered a number of vocal selections in the choir of the Second Congregational church as he is the possessor of a promising voice. As a courtesy, one of the largest gatherings was the reception given by choir master Harold Reiter at the latter's home. The evening was whiled away in a pleasant manner, and at this time Mr. Fletcher's rendition of "Home on the Range" by Gulon was masterly given.

MRS. REBECCA COCHRAN HAS BIRTHDAY DINNER

The home was lovely with bouquets of summer flowers and the dinner table was adorned with a large birthday cake on which glowed 89 small tapers. BUYING WISDOM

OUT of a meeting of Iowa farmers has come an idea on the relation of buying to general business conditions which, as a topic of national discussion, may go far toward restoring normal trade currents. It concerns the attitude of the buyer in determining whether purchases are warranted.

These Iowa farmers have started a campaign to buy when the buyer is able to buy and his purchase satisfies a genuine need. It is not merely a "Buy Now" drive, but has a more intelligent appeal to those who may be skimping needlessly because of a mob psychology.

So much is heard these days of the need for economy that many potential buyers may be led to the practice of a false economy. It is not economical to skimp on the necessities if one is able to buy them.

The Iowa farmers, after talking things over, issued a statement which is having wide circulation because it is full of sound logic. They point out that while legislation may help farmers to get better prices, real and permanent improvement can come only through a stimulated demand for farm products. Employment will increase, they argue, only when more goods are bought.

We believe many people are not buying the things they want because they have the idea that they are doing the popular thing when they use worn out articles instead of buying new ones. Or, they fear they will be criticized by neighbors, relatives, employees or employer.

These farmers are convinced that these ideas are wrong. People who can afford to satisfy genuine needs are right in buying what they need and what they can afford and the Iowa farmers are out to stop any criticism of them. Furthermore, to prove the sincerity of their views, this group of farmers, admitting they are in need of new farm machinery, are pledging themselves to go ahead and buy it.

There's undoubtedly some law of economics behind the reasoning of the lowans. To the average man it appears as just good every-day common sense.

THE SALES TAX IN MISSISSIPPI

The value of a manufacturers' sales tax, which congress rejected, is shown by the experience of Mississippi, where one is now in operation. The state was confronted with a huge deficit, and the governor pushed through this method of extricating it in the face of strong opposition. But the tax is none the less becoming popular.

As its operation in Canada has shown, the burden is so small that it is not felt by the consumer. A sales tax has no appreciable effect upon prices, so that its very existence is practically unknown. The adoption of so simple and effective a device as this would have done away with the nuisance taxes of which everyone complains.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FOR HOOVER

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, wife of the late president, comes out and declares she will vote for Hoover, despite the fact that Franklin D. Roosevelt is a fifth cousin of her husband.

Mrs. Roosevelt finds that there is no reason why she should cast her ballot for the man who bears the same name as her husband. She will vote for Hoover because she believes he stands for and enunciates in far greater degree the principles the gallant Colonel stood for than does the Democratic nominee. Upon what does she predict this belief? Presumably upon the factual evidence that Governor Roosevelt in his acceptance speech dealt entirely with generalities, that he showed himself both in that message and during his incumbency as Governor of New York an opportunist, a visionist and a man given to the practice of sacrificing almost everything in the interest of expediency asserted in the Pottsville Journal.

Where Colonel Roosevelt was all through his public life unalterably and irreconcilably arrayed against Tammany, Governor Roosevelt made himself practically subservient to Tammany every time it appeared to his advantage to do so.

When Theodore Roosevelt attacked a proposition he always had ready a proposed remedy. Governor Roosevelt calmly tells the country that if the Democracy is successful at the polls next November that prosperity will come to this country when it goes into power next March but does not tell how that prosperity will be brought about.

BACK TO THE GOLD STANDARD

Devotees of silver and flat money, who have been rejoicing at the deposition of gold from its throne as the basic money metal of the world, must have received a shock when they read the call of the International Bank to the nations to return to the gold standard.

The shock must have been rendered more severe by their reading that Britain, Sweden and Japan, the three principal countries that have forsaken gold, favor return. The International Bank reaffirms the fact, established by long experience, that gold is "the best available monetary mechanism and best suited to make possible a free flow of the world's trade."

There can be but one standard of value. That must be a commodity which any person is willing to accept in exchange for any other commodity. That commodity is gold. There cannot be two standards. The attempt to lift silver to equality with gold has failed, because its value fluctuates and is measured by that of gold. Hence the confusion in commerce between the gold and silver standard countries. Paper money has value only when redeemable in gold. When a country goes off the gold standard, it has some advantage through depreciation of its currency, but that is soon lost by adjustment of prices and that country longs to return to gold, stability and safety. It is no accident that before the present crisis all the great commercial nations of the world based their monetary systems on gold and that, when backward nations, like Japan and Siam, advance to the front rank, they adopt gold.

Events are disproving the plea of detractors of gold that the supply of that metal is becoming inadequate, that not enough new gold is produced. Prospectors and investors have gone into the mountains and have discovered new deposits or produced from old ones, as in Alaska and Oregon. An old saying among miners is, "Gold is where you find it" and there seems always more to be found.

Are You Indifferent?
Do You Desire Happiness?
Do You Want Freedom?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

You do not know I am alive. You do not hate me, you do not love me, you are merely indifferent. That's the unforgivable offense.

Long ago we stood at a crossroads and wondered which path we should take. And finally, because a man must decide at last, we took one road and followed it until now. . . . But we never shall cease to wonder what we would have seen on that other road and where we would be now if we had taken it. . . . But you'll never go back to that crossroads again. And if you did, you'd not be the lad who stood there long ago.

I read in some book by Bernard Shaw: "I no longer desire happiness; life is nobler than that." . . . And these ten words were like a sudden light in the darkness.

Does love "ennoble" men and women? What kind of love do you mean? Is there more than one kind of love? And what kind of men and women? Love brings out, sharpens and concentrates what is there—it put nothing into human beings.

I heard a man say to a child, "Never say 'He doesn't' . . . But I used to hear a great university president say, 'He doesn't,' and he insisted that it was a quite proper abbreviation for 'he doesn't' . . . But if you care about the opinion of people who are not so learned, you must say 'He doesn't'."

Tell me my memory is bad, and I'll agree. Tell me I'm careless, and I'll admit there may be something in what you say. Tell me that my sense of humor is faulty, and I might at the proper moment confess the charge. . . . But tell me I'm a poor judge of character, and I'll deny it. Hardly a one of us, except in a dark moment of humiliation, will admit he does not know his fellow creatures.

Do you desire freedom? It is worth having, but its possession will lay heavy responsibilities upon you. The Free man must be greater than the slave, and the desire for freedom is not in itself a guarantee that we can use it.

Synopsis of Editorial Views By Newspapers of Nations on Important Subjects as Edited by Consolidated Press Association

Railway Consolidation Plan Met With General Approval

Grouping Of Eastern Lines Into Four Great Systems Described As Logical Arrangement In Direction Of Economy And Efficiency

Generally agreeing that railways are in need of such aid, the press of the country predicts that economy and efficiency in operation will be produced by the proposed grouping of eastern railroads into four great groups. It is foreseen that, in spite of the fact that it probably will take several years to perfect details, immediate beneficial effects on the whole business situation, as well as to the railways, will result. Approval of the plan by the Interstate Commerce Commission is recommended, though it is pointed out by some comments that the consolidations already actually are in operation.

Referring to the main branches as the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate roads, the NEW YORK SUN points out that the project would merge into these four groups "virtually all the trunk-line mileage of the east, aside from New England." Of the opinion that the project "marks important progress toward solution of the transportation problems," the Sun suggests that "the job probably will not be completed for years, but it should not take long for some favorable effects of the decision to be felt," and advises that "much railroad investment will have to be written off, and it can be done with the least aggregate loss if that process is preceded by general mergers."

The program appeals to the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN as "in the direction of economy in railroad management and administration, a virtue which necessity is now forcing," and that paper believes that "it should be an aid in the recovery of the normal status of railroad enterprise." The BALTIMORE SUN is convinced that "if the plan is accepted by the railroads, it should aid them materially in working out of the chaos in which they have been involved since the consolidation was proposed as the answer to their various problems."

The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS thinks that "the important decision should mark the turning point in the present abnormally low condition of production and trade" and that "with better prospects thus presented, every form of business enterprise can move forward with new courage to possess itself of the unfolding opportunities within its reach." The Daily News recognizes that "the consideration shown by the commission for manifest needs of the railroads marks a chequered reversal of former policies reflecting a bureaucratic rigidity which discouraged railroad enterprise."

While maintaining that Virginia "would much prefer to see its railroads left alone," the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS holds that the action of the commission "is believed to be an immense forward step toward the proposed consolidation" and that the present plan "is infinitely to be preferred to the former plan announced by the commission some years ago." The World-News concludes: "Faced by a new competition that has no cost for right of way, and no union restrictions; forced to maintain wasteful competitive conditions and handicapped by an extensive form of government regulation, railroads of this country are facing a crisis not entirely due to reduced car loadings or diverted traffic. Immediate consolidation into strong and effective systems is held by many to be the solution of a problem now growing more difficult every day. Sufficient time must be given to states and cities to study this latest proposal."

"It is a hopeful sign," declares the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, "that the railroads of the country, through their respective management, are earnestly and harmoniously engaged in working out practicable methods of self-help. The railroads can not be spared by the productive forces of the country. The work of eliminating waste in transportation revenues expressed in unnecessary costs and of increasing the service performed for passengers and shippers should have the sympathetic support of all who realize to how great a degree the prosperity of the country is still dependent upon the railroads."

Advocating withdrawal of some of the functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the NEWARK EVENING NEWS declares: "The railroad evils grow out of two things—uncontrolled capitalization and the use of rates for discrimination. Control of the first should be continued, the second could be handled by the commission sitting as a sort of court. As for the rest of it, the immense bureaucracy created by the commission

Westminster Sees Great Year Ahead

Expect To Eclipse Many Feats Of Past Year In Coming Semesters

ENROLLMENT WILL REACH NEW TOTALS

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 3.—Ending the 1931-32 college year in excellent financial condition, and with the spirit of students and faculty at high pitch because of encouraging successes during the year, Westminster College officials are looking forward to another banner year which starts on September 13. Dr. R. F. Galbreath said.

Enrollment for the 1930-31 year was 467, while the registration for the 1931-32 year reached the total of 556. With large numbers of freshmen already enrolled for the coming year, and with additional registrations arriving each day, indications are that the number on the rolls for the 1932-33 year will also be high.

Special Achievements

Special achievements during the 1931-32 year included the winning of the Tri-State Conference and Pittsburgh district championships in basketball, the winning of the Tri-State Conference championship in cross country, the winning of another All-American prize by the junior class yearbook.

Gifts to the college since October, 1931, include: $2,000 by Dr. Samuel Elliott, a sum of $25,000 by the will of John Aldred of Pittsburgh, a memorial stone to Dr. F. G. Ferguson by the class of 1907, a gift of $1,000 by Samuel N. Warden of the class of 1884, another gift of $1,500 by Dr. Samuel Elliott, a special offering by the Neshannock-Presbyterian church, memorial trees for the campus by the class of 1928 and by Joseph Francis and others.

Plant Many Trees

Arbor day was celebrated on the campus by the planting of trees by representatives of the four classes, and college workmen placed and planted more than 600 trees, many of which are evergreens, during the spring. Grading and landscaping of the lower campus, started in the spring, has been continued and will be carried on until the opening of college. Improvements and repairs have been made on all college buildings, and extensive decorating and alteration of the Hillside dormitory will be made this summer.

Intra-mural sports programs during the year attracted more students than ever before. With organized games in handball, volleyball, archery-golf, swimming, water polo, badminton, tennis, quoits, muskball, basketball, football, indoor baseball, and field hockey, more than 75 percent of the men students participated. The participation of coeds was not quite so high, but the girls' groups, following their year's program, presented a gymnasium exhibit to show the results of physical training.

Urge Gardeners To Save Own Seed

Unlikely That Red Cross Will Furnish Free Garden Seeds Next Spring

Local gardeners who have received free seeds from the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, during the past two years are reminded that these seeds may not be available next spring and gardeners are asked to save their own seed.

The seed from one large ripe tomato will more than supply the demands for an ordinary family, while several ears of corn will furnish an abundant supply for a family.

Many gardeners always save seed from their choice specimens for use in the coming year instead of buying in the market.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 3.—It isn't often that Kingston children get a chance to row a boat in the streets, so when they do they take advantage of it.

Motorists drenched by the rain that deluged the Wyoming Valley one night recently were no little bit surprised to find youngsters rowing a boat at 12:30 o'clock in the flooded area south of West Union street. A blocked sewer resulted in the street flood and gave the children chance to become temporary sailors.

land interests "may find cause for satisfaction in the attitude of the commission, when it says to the Pennsylvania that it must get out of New England by selling its New England holdings or placing them in the hands of trustees," while the HARTFORD TIMES comments: "The question for the Pennsylvania to decide would be whether it considers commission approval of what it has done and might desire to do, more important than holding its control in the New Haven and Boston & Maine, or whether it would be willing to sacrifice that position in order to be permitted to carry out the general plan with commission approval."

"It is not unlikely," says the SCRANTON TIMES, "that further appeals to the commission and possibly to the courts will follow, with the likelihood that the plan will not be put into effect for several years yet." The CHARLESTON (W. Va.) DAILY MAIL advises that it "should be approved and placed in operation, its weak points, perhaps, corrected subsequently." Noting changes since 1929, the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS concludes: "Business conditions have so changed since 1929 that it is difficult to predict much about the new plan. It was generally felt when the matter was first broached that railroad consolidation was good in principle." The YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR is convinced that "the carriers will accept the plan," and that "probably three years will be required for the reallocation and rearrangement of the lines."

"In most cases it is a recognition of arrangements already made," avers the PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER, while the MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL declares: "The progressive consolidation of lines that had been going forward for more than half a century in a logical and rational manner when the forces of government interrupted it, is now to be resumed by order of the same governmental forces. How much better off the country might have been, had there been no interruption."

"The roads," states the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL, "are faced with serious problems, but those problems will not be solved through increased rates. What they have to find, it appears, is cheaper operating costs, lower rates and greater volume if they are to compete with other modern transportation systems. They cannot live if they kill off the interests, among them agricultural, that supply their tonnage."

New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—Pennsylvania's automobile mortality rate for 1931 was just a bit lower than the rate for the country as a whole, the Census Bureau reports.

Last year, 2,401 deaths resulted from automobile crashes in the Keystone State. This was at a rate of 24.8 deaths per 100,000 population. The automobile mortality rate for the country as a whole was 24.9 per 100,000 residents.

The automobile mortality rate of Pennsylvania had been 24.9 in 1930, falling slightly to the 24.8 in 1931. Ohio's rate was 29 in 1931 and 29.9 in 1930.

Of the states, seventeen are credited with higher automobile death rates in 1931 than Pennsylvania.

FINDS WATER SNAKE
ON END OF LINE

(International News Service) ASHLAND, Pa., Aug. 3.—Here's something new in a fish story. Eugene Frable of Weatherly tells it. He had caught a nice-sized perch and had placed the fish on a string, to the end of which had been tied a stick to prevent the fish from slipping off. He put the perch in the water and continued angling.

Later, when he went to get the string of fish he was surprised to pull a large watersnake from the water. The snake, which had partially swallowed the stick and the fish, disgorged them and made off into the deeper section of the stream.

HOLIDAYS RUN UP
STATE EXPENSES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3.—Holidays the day when highways are crowded with automobiles, cost Pennsylvania hospitals hundreds of dollars, in the opinion of Henry G. Yearick, superintendent of the Homeopathic hospital here.

Every holiday brings an overflow of traffic and other accidents," Yearick a member of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, explained.

The majority of these cases are free of charge and consequently the state must bear the cost."

Reports from the Hospital Association showed that the motor accidents at Greensburg, Bedford, and Gettysburg are extremely high.

Germany Wages
Hot 'Butter War'
With NeighborsRetailers Measures Are Taken By Holland And Den-
markBy ERIC G. BOY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, August 3.—A "butter war" has broken out between Germany, Holland and Denmark over the import restrictions passed by the German government.

Retaliatory measures taken by Holland and Denmark for the butter contingents introduced by the German government have tremendously cut down German exports to these countries with the result that exporters here are violently demanding repeal of the import restriction policy.

In line with the autarchic principles sponsored by the Nationalist and Fascist parties that Germany must by all means strive to become a self-supporting country, the late Bruening government put the German butter import on a contingent basis, whereby only a very limited amount of butter was to be imported at normal tariffs while increased rates were levied on imports in excess of the quota. The idea of this movement was to oblige Germans to eat German butter and drink milk from German cows, instead of foreign dairy products.

Thirteen countries, all of which had concluded trade agreements with Germany, were allotted annual imports of 5,000 tons each at the moderate tariff of $12.50 per ton. While the quota system favored countries like Poland, Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, which never exported that amount of butter to Germany and which are of no practical importance to Germany's industrial export, Holland and Denmark felt badly hurt. Import of Dutch butter dropped from 6,251 tons during the first four months of last year to 2,775 tons during the same period 1932.

The natural result of the German procedure was that both Holland and Denmark which took about 14 per cent of the total German export trade in 1930, shunted their orders to England and elsewhere. Thus, the German export to Denmark is now 75 per cent lower than in 1930. Exports to Holland decreased 50 per cent.

Industrial circles in Germany are hopeful of persuading the new von Papen cabinet to replace the absolute contingent system by proportionate contingents based on the butter imported last year by the respective countries.

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 3.—Alvin Root, a rare plant discovered by a German Botanist on Peters Mountain in Monroe county in 1803 but not seen for 122 years, has again sprung forth in this section.

Industrial circles in Germany are hopeful of persuading the new von Papen cabinet to replace the absolute contingent system by proportionate contingents based on the butter imported last year by the respective countries.

FROG DROWNS BIRDS
IN PRIVATE POND

(International News Service)

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 3.—Robert Foltz, local manufacturer, for some time had been finding dead birds in the lily pond at the rear of his residence.

He decided to investigate.

One day, while watching the pond, he saw a huge frog jump on an English sparrow that was drinking at the water's edge.

The frog carried the bird beneath the surface and drowned it.

Aside from loans and bond issues, it is conceded that new taxes are the only means of providing large sums for relief. Satisfied to let the measures come up for action, its opponents see a record vote as the only answer to render hollow the demands of those who want millions to aid the jobless.

Rep. Martin Memolo, Lackawanna, agreed to sponsor the occupational tax bill. His action will not be reflected in votes in November since he is not a candidate to succeed himself.

If the bill fails, the ways and means committee indicated it may bring out the measures taxing cigarettes, cosmetics and soft drinks as the move to offset any contention of an unfair test.

The proposed 1 per cent occupational tax is estimated to be worth

$12,000,000 in revenue and would be levied not on incomes but upon occupational assessments made by a board of state officials.

The levy, specifically designated as one in addition to any tax now provided by law, would apply to all public offices, public posts of profit, trades, occupations and professions

"and on all persons 21 years of age and upwards who follow no gainful occupation or calling."

Tax Great Number.

Rep. Morton Witkin, Philadelphia, who reported the bill from committee, termed it a measure which will

"tax the greatest number of people the least amount per person."

Money raised by the impost would be ear-marked for a special unemployment relief fund to cover the $12,000,000 appropriation provided in the Talbot bill, now awaiting final action in the state.

The minimum tax collection under the bill would be $1 and the maximum

$50.00. If enacted, the act becomes effective November 1, continuing for one year only.

It is estimated that 5,000,000 persons would be affected by the bill and the average payment would be

$3. Two per cent of the money collected is allowed the revenue deppartment for the expense of collection.

BRINGS SOUVENIR
FOR OLD PRINTERS

Fires turn up all sorts of things and the Woods building blaze of last April 12 was no exception.

From somewhere in the ruins of the downtown block, James Casey, janitor of the old Trades & Labor Assembly hall, housed in the upper floor of the building, dug out the original charter of New Castle's first typographical union branch. The chapter was No. 270, founded by seven old-time printers. It was formed on October 31, 1890—42 years ago.

Charter members whose names were scrolled upon the charter were B. F. Butler, John W. White, Fred L. Rents, Norris D. Pyle, John F. Quinn, W. J. Miller and John A. Leathers, a few of whom still are associated with the printing profession.

Edward G. Plank was then the international president.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3.—In the first serious clash of a new general offensive against the Japanese and Manchukuo forces in southern Manchuria, an army of 2,000 Chinese rebels Monday night attacked Yingkow, port of the important city of Newchwang, and overwhelmed the garrison of Japanese troops, it was revealed in dispatches received here to-day.

Japanese destroyers quickly landed bludejackets to protect the town of Yingkow itself, although the rebels continued to menace it, as well as Newchwang. A cruiser was ordered to proceed to the scene from Tokyo.

Expedition Back From

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Objects ranging from perfume and eye-paint bottles used about 4000 B. C., to a seal impression upon clay, showing an unclothed man and woman, walking dejectedly, with a serpent in the background, a mythological scene based on a story which dealt with the sorrowful results of man's association with the serpent, have just arrived here.

The objects constitute the American share of the joint Assyrian expedition of the museum of the University of Pennsylvania and the American schools of oriental research.

The antiques, many of which are delicate and fragile, arrived none the worse for their long journey by way of the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean.

They represent a portion of the material yield of the second season of excavations at Tepe Gawra and at Tell Billa, north of the city of Mosul.

Some of the objects, which cover a span of 4000 years, were unearthed in the Persian and Parthian tombs of Tell Billa. Others were found in the Assyrian and Hurrian deposits.

Dash Reveals
Forged Plates(International News Service)
SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 3.—What a small, apparently insignificant dash (—) can do!

It proved the undoing of John Bixler, local motorist, and resulted in his landing in the county jail for ten days.

Bixler was arrested by a State Highway Patrolman charged with the illegal use of license tags. The officer noticed something peculiar about the plates on Bixler's car and stopped him. He found that a pair of 1928 plates had been cleverly changed to resemble this year's plates.

Bixler made one serious error of omission in the change. He failed to hammer out the small dash that appears in commercial license plates, and it was this detail that attracted the officer's attention.

PINCHOT TO RULE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Ainey Resigns Before Probe

Pinchot Appointees To Hold Majority Of Commission Places

AINEY DECLARES HIS INNOCENCE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 3.—The gates of the Public Service Commission against which he stormed unrelentingly, today were ajar to Gov. Gifford Pinchot. He can assume immediate control of the utility regulating body as a result of the resignation yesterday of Chairman W. D. B. Ainey.

Three vacancies now exist on the commission. Governor Pinchot was assured control by the resignation of Emerson Collins earlier this week, but the latter will not step down until October 1. By the Ainey resignation, however, he is made the commission generalissimo at once and a reopening of the whole utility question lay in the hollow of his hand.

Commissioners George Woodruff and Samuel Gruenberg are Pinchot appointees. A third vacancy was caused by expiration of the term of Commissioner J. W. Brown. The only non-Pinchot appointees remaining on the board of seven are Samuel W. Walker and S. Ray Shelby.

Ainey Retires

Chairman Ainey bowed himself out of a stormy picture. His farewell was so fashioned that drama replaced mere sensationalism.

"I leave public service today a poor man, broken in health and in spirit," he said. "My only regret is that I am not able to face the enemies who gather around me to destroy my reputation in the twilight of my life."

He steadfastly held to his innocence but there was no tinge of bitterness.

That he was too ill to fight the charges, as he contended, was conceded. After 68 years, more than half of them marked by distinguished accomplishments, Ainey retires from public life.

Pressure from friends and associates is understood to have influenced Ainey in making his decision. He had contended all along he would fight to the last ditch though the senate was prepared to go just as far. His physician also advised him otherwise, he declared, and "I have come to this conclusion with a great deal of reluctance. I have to the inevitable because I have no control over my physical condition."

Member For 17 Years

"I have been a member of the Public Service Commission for seventeen years. During that time I have endeavored to do my duty in accordance with my oath of office and my conscience."

"In leaving the scenes of these activities, my delightful associations with the members of the commission, I do so with the keenest regret, but more so the fact that base imputations have been cast upon my fair name."

"I leave it to those who know me and who have had daily contact with me and those who had public relationship with me to judge whether or not the statements as made and widely broadcast without an opportunity of explanation on my part are true or false. I can say to those who know me that they are false and so I rest my case."

Charges Blackmail

Ainey declared the Chapman charges were founded in blackmail, that he never directly or indirectly had knowledge that A. W. Thompson paid his hospital expenses at Baltimore and that he never received favors from railroads or other utilities. He contended he paid A. B. Millar, then an employee of the Mitten Men and Management Company, for expenses of his trip to Europe in 1927. He added that the Governor's allegations that he was a rich man were untrue and unfounded.

Those close to the Governor expect him to fire the opening shot in the utility rate fight without much delay. He has long been an implacable foe of the large public service companies. That opening shot will be viewed as the signal for a struggle that will make Pennsylvania an embattled area and attract country-wide attention as the Governor charges on "the Power Gang."

Governor Pinchot has made a long, close study of the utility question and for years has been on record against many prevailing rates. In his last gubernatorial campaign and in the last primary the utility question was his main cannonpiece.

WREN MAKES NEST IN MAN'S TROUSERS

(International News Service) WAYNESBORO, Pa., Aug. 3.—The ingenuity of beasts and birds often are amazing. Consider this piece of fledgling resourcefulness!

When Mrs. Roy Bingaman, near State Line, Pa., went to take her husband's trousers from the clothes line, where they had been hanging for several days, she noticed a bulge in the hip pocket. Investigating, she found a wren's nest snuggled there. And that wasn't all. Four tiny eggs lay in the nest.

Informers that his trousers had been transformed into a home for the Wren family, her husband didn't have the heart to turn them out, and instead he bought a new pair of trousers.

LEGAL MIXUP IS CAUSED BY TWINS

(International News Service) SUNBURY, Pa., Aug. 3.—Mistaken identity again!

This time twin brothers caused the mixup. The resemblance of Claude Raup and his twin brother of Shamokin was the cause of an action before Referee E. P. Mackey at the court house recently.

Both were employed by the Palmsano Company. Claude was injured and had been receiving compensation. A petition was filed to hold the payments on the ground that he had returned to work.

Attorney John Pipa, representing the injured man, presented testimony to show that he was still incapacitated, and that the man at work was his twin brother, it being next to impossible to distinguish one from the other.

Park Amusements Health Elixirs

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3.—Like in all other appropriations, proportionate reductions are desired in the amounts budgeted for medical attention for the family.

And taking one local physician's advice for what it implies, the desired end may be attained by, can you imagine, riding the contraptions at the amusement parks and making "whoopee."

Benefits extracted from riding the "thrillers" are healthful and many to both young and old, the physician went on. The roller-coaster rides stimulate every blood cell in the body, causing beneficial reaction in all muscles of the heart and stomach. In instances where the riders are unavoidably compelled to yell while the cars are taking the "dips," the lungs and throat muscles, too, are strengthened.

The merry-go-round, the chance games and other joy-giving combinations all are a source of health, bodily and mentally, the doctor said.

"The time is not far distant when physicians, instead of prescribing so much medicine, will order several hours of controlled recreation in the outdoors at stated intervals."

Problem Of School Tax Collections Not Yet Settled

Board And Collector Fail To Reach Solution At Meeting Tuesday

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 3.—The special meeting of the Ellwood City Board of Education in the Lincoln building last night to finally settle the present delinquent tax situation was of no avail, for no definite action was taken by the board.

After special and private consultations and then a public meeting the board decided to postpone all action until their regular monthly meeting next Tuesday.

The difficulty confronting the board is that the city is required to turn in a complete report of their taxes to the state department in a very few days. At the present this cannot be done since Tax Collector T. A. E. McConahy can not be legally exonerated from his obligations. As the board's attorney, W. J. Moffat of New Castle, pointed out a tax collector may be exonerated by three methods: collect all the taxes; prepare an exoneration list that must be accepted by the board; and give a return of the taxes remaining on real estate. Attorney for the tax collector, John P. Lockhart, verified this statement.

The board cannot properly exonerate the tax collector since he has prepared two lists: a list of persons whom he thinks the 1931 taxes can be collected from, and a list, with a total sum of over $10,000 to be exonerated. The board cannot turn in their complete report to the state department until the tax collector accounts for the tax in the first list. He will either have to collect the money or else exonerate them also. The board is not agreed to the latter.

Both attorneys pointed out that the tax collector can still proceed to collect delinquent taxes after they are exonerated, but he will be stripped of his legal power to enforce the collection. The matter will be voluntary on the part of the exonerated person. The tax collector has the authority to collect all taxes prior to the filing of any bills. Then it is completely out of his hands, according to Attorney Lockhart.

Tax Collector McConahy stated that he is not asking for exoneration yet, but desires a little more time in which to continue collections.

At their meeting last night the board gave the necessary permission to the B. V. M. church to use the athletic field when the church will hold its annual outdoor carnival on Aug. 15, 16 and 17.

The last payment for the graduation caps and gowns held by the local school was ordered to be paid by the board. Board members present commended on the fine work done in painting the window sills of the Lincoln building.

The tax problem is expected to come to a final settlement on next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moyer of the Ellwood-Zelienople road.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Carter who have been visiting at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Charles Frazier of Ellport, have left for Indianapolis, Ind., where they plan to spend several months.

Mrs. Victor Koach was leader and the meeting was in the form of a memorial to Mrs. H. C. Campbell, whose death occurred in May. Mrs. Campbell was the president of the W. G. M. S. of America for many years and many beautiful tributes were read in honor of her memory.

At the business session routine matters were transacted and plans made to meet at the church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock to quill. Concluding an informal social period a tempting collation was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. R. H. Kirk and Mrs. Harry Wimer.

The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday, September 6 at the home of Mrs. J. E. Caughey with Mrs. Clifford Gibbons and Mrs. Elmer McMunn as associate hostesses.

"France Defiant" is the message of this magnificent monument presented to France by the United States Government. It rises 66 feet high and is the work of Frederick MacMonies, distinguished American sculptor. The statue is erected near Meaux, on the famed Marne battle-field.

Local Girl Bride Of New Castle Man

Hazel Zeigler Weds Lester C. Shirk Here Tuesday Morning

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 3.—An interesting wedding ceremony took place Tuesday morning when Miss Hazel Zeigler, well known local girl and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Zeigler of Spring avenue, became the bride of Lester C. Shirk of New Castle. The wedding took place at 9 o'clock in the morning at the home of the Rev. Charles Z. Bell on the Ellwood-New Castle road.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate members of both families and the attending couple, Miss Sally Wardman of this city and Walter Fagan of New Castle.

The bride presented a picture of loveliness in her smart suit fashioned of wine colored chiffon velvet with accessories to match. She also carried a corsage of red roses. Miss Wardman was attired in a blue suit with accessories to match.

After receiving the congratulations of those present, Mr. and Mrs. Shirk left for Slippery Rock where they will enjoy a prolonged vacation at a cabin.

Mrs. Shirk is popular among the younger set of the community having graduated from the local High School with the class of '31. Mr. Shirk was graduated the same year from the New Castle High School.

At the close of the games Mary Louise Davis and the guest of honor received the high score favors. Miss Jackson was completely surprised when she was presented with an additional gift from the club members.

The events of the day were brought to a conclusion with the serving of a dainty luncheon by the hostess' mother, Mrs. Robert Johnston and Mrs. Thad Young.

Those present on the occasion were the Mesdames James McAnlis, David Jones, Jr., James Hereford, Thad Young, Charles Beacham, the latter of Gettysburg, and the Misses Pauline Jackson, Margaret Benford, Josephine Humphrey, Mary Louise Davis, Virginia Thompson, the honor guest, and the hostess.

Four Men Break Olympic Record Of 200-Meters

Metcalf, Tolan, Luti And Jonah Run 200 Meters In Record Time

OLD MARKS ARE FALLING FAST

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—Another sweet mystery of life has been probed by the amazing ease and awe-some monotony with which the 1932 Olympic boys and girls have blotted out records which were ineffaceable for years.

Zooming around in the ozone today are a set of questions, all linked together, offered with the hope that a logical and indisputable answer will come to explain the mad havoc that the athletes have made with the marks in the first three days of striving.

Questions Raised

Those quizzes are like this:

"Were the former Olympic stars just a lot of padoks in comparison with the specimens of 1932?"

"Are we gazing now upon the greatest track and field stars the world has known?"

"Or are the clocking boys frivolous around a bit with their watches for the greater honor and glory and speed-busting benefit of those who are part and parcel of the Tenth Olympiad?"

Back in A. D. 1904 Archie Hahn of the U. S. A., one of the greatest sprinters of the world ever gazed upon, hung up the Olympic record of 21-6-10 for the 200 meters. For 20 years it stood untied and unbeaten. Then Jackson V. Scholtz of the U. S. A. equalled it in 1924 and H. Koernig, the German, made it a triple tie in 1928.

Four Break Record

Cometh the Olympiad of 1932 and four men crack that mark within a 20-minute period.

Under the blazing sun of yesterday afternoon, which seemed to sap human vitality of its final ounce, Ralph Metcalf of the U. S. A., coasted home in 21-5-10, Eddie Tolan of the U. S. A. tied Metcalf's new mark. A few minutes later C. Luti of the Argentine, shattered the new record with 21-4-10 and in the last race of the quarter final Arthur Jonah of Germany ran in the same time as did Luti.

What is the answer?

Tolan was credited with equaling the world's record for the 100 meters on Monday; R. Tisdell of Ireland was clocked for a new world's mark in the 400-meter hurdle, but this was disallowed because he knocked over one of the bars. But Glen Harden of the U. S. A., who ran second was timed in 52 seconds, which equals the present official figure. J. Kudocinski of Poland, hung up new figures for the 10,000 meters; the winners of the trials in the 3,000 meters steeplechase each were credited with bettering over the old record and greeting new ones of their own.

Keller Sets Record

Jack Keller, of the U. S. A., rammed over the 110-meter hurdles, won all by his bones, and was rewarded with a new record for the trip. Tom Hampson, the great English half-miler, pranced over the 800 meter route and was informed that his time was 1 minute 49-8-10 seconds, another world's record.

The very famous Stelle Walsh helped herself to a new world's record of 11-9-10 for 100 meters in a heat on Monday, duplicated it in the semi-final and dittoed the same figure when she breezed to triumph in the final on Tuesday.

Nashua Defeats Frizzleburg 3-1

Nashua baseball team handed the Frizzleburg Stars a 3 to 1 defeat in a game played at the Nashua field Monday night. King on the rubber for the Nashua team pitched an air-tight game allowing only four hits and fanning 12 men, while Gettins on the knoll for the Frizzleburg team was found for 10 hits. He had eight strikeouts. Badila Pinkerton, A. Braho and Bon Bon smote the ball for extra-bases.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Frizzleburg ... 010 000 000-1 4 2 Nashua ... 001 010 10X-3 10 1

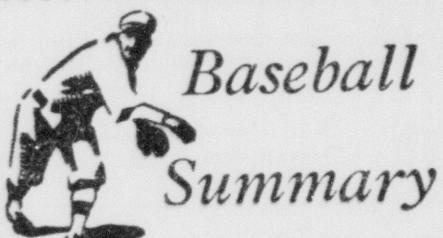

Batteries: Frizzleburg—Gettins and Curry. Nashua—King and McConahy. Umpires—Duyk and J. Curry.

Sumner Stars But Universals Lose

Lawrence Independents vanquished Universals 10 to 0 in American division, Twilight Baseball league game at South Hills yesterday. Sumner featured with a home run and a double. He also assisted in a double play and relieved Mackey on the hill. Zidow held the Universals to five hits.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Indies ... 003 520 0-10 14 1 Universals ... 005 001 0-6 5 2

Batteries: Independents, S. Zidow and Cwynar; Universals, Mackey, Sumner and Hill.

Market Strengthens After Weakness Of Late Yesterday

GREAT OPTIMISM AMONG STEEL MEN

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service, Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The stock market strengthened today after yesterday's weakness.

Coppers and Oils led the recovery. Strength in the oils followed the sharp decline in domestic crude production for the week. Payment of the regular dividend by Standard of California even though not earned in the second quarter provided further help. Ohio Oil went to a new 1932 top and the others improved.

American Telephone was outstanding in the leaders, rising more than a point while Auburn rebounded as much. Consolidated Gas firmed up after an early dip. Railroads were better, recovering from the reaction of the last three days.

Steel issues were sluggish. The reviews continued to report great optimism among steel men, and this lifted U. S. Steel preferred more than a point.

(International News Service)

New York, Aug. 3.—The recovery movement which started in the stock market two weeks ago was resumed with vigor today.

Early afternoon gains of 1 and 2 points were common and some of the volatile issues like Auburn did better. American Telephone rose more than 3 points. U. S. Steel preferred rose a couple of points.

The rails were the bright spot, recovering from their weakness of the last three days.

Piccard's Wife Is Real Philosopher Tells About Plans

Wife Of Swiss Scientist Not Afraid To Let Husband Try Another Flight Into Sky

Feels That Next Week Her Husband Will Achieve New Honors In Scientific Field

(Following is the first of two interviews with Mme. August Piccard, wife of the Swiss scientist who next Monday plans a new ascent into the stratosphere ten miles above the surface of the earth. In her talks with International News Service, Mme. Piccard revealed her belief that if necessary, her husband should sacrifice his life in behalf of science.)

GEORGE ARTHUR DETHY International News Service Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1932, By International News Service)

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Aug. 3.—It has become an accepted philosophy of the modern achievement of man that the greatest influence is that of a woman.

This is true in the case of Professor August Piccard, the frail, studious Swiss scientist who has left for Zurich for a new balloon ascent into the stratosphere, more than ten miles above the surface of the earth.

Peaceful Home Scene

Mme. Piccard was interviewed at her little cottage not far from the Institute of Brussels. It was hard to believe upon viewing the peaceful home scene that the father of this family had already achieved what scientists termed the "impossible" and departed a second time to hazard his life on a new experiment in the sky.

I questioned Mme. Piccard as to what prompted the new flight into the heavens.

"My husband," she said, "was not satisfied with the results of his last flight into the stratosphere, especially his failure to measure the cosmic rays properly, since atmospheric conditions were unsatisfactory. Therefore, he wanted to try again."

I expressed natural amazement that a woman who had devoted her life to bringing into the world three daughters and two sons and raising them with motherly care, should be able to discourse clearly on science.

Helped By Wife

"We collaborate as much as possible," she said in explanation. "But of course I am not so well versed in scientific matters as he, and so he has to explain his work, which he always does in simple terms for my benefit."

"He tells me of his ambitions and hopes with great care and I love to listen to him and try to understand. I have great interest in his life work. He even tries to explain his work to the children, doing so by means of comparisons and designs drawn on paper. The kiddies love to have him tell about what he is working on."

Mme. Piccard revealed her husband as a very human man as well as a pioneer in the field of science.

"He is probably similar in many respects to other husbands," she said, "but I possibly unlike some other wives, am anxious for him to bring home his classroom problems and discuss the ambitions of his life."

Should Sacrifice

To my question as to whether the provider of a home is justified in risking his life for science, Mme. Piccard answered without hesitation.

"Yes," she said, "I certainly think that a scientist should sacrifice everything for his work. We both believe that a scientist should consider his science before everything, even his own life."

The wife of a scientist would fall in her duty if she was incapable of understanding that she must sacrifice her personal feelings as well as the sacred sentiments of her family."

"Is it a great sacrifice for you?" I asked.

"Yes, certainly it is," she replied. "Because after the first attempt, he promised me he would never do it again, but when he found this venture was not sufficiently conclusive he was disappointed both as a man and a scientist he could not bear the thought that another man might go on with his work, which he felt was not complete.

Seek New Honors
"So we talked it over, man-fashion, for hours. He finally convinced me that a new attempt should be made for his science and for his honor, so I consented to allow him again to tempt fate."

"But he also convinced me that this trial is so carefully prepared that there is a minimum of risk. I don't feel the same anguish I did before. I now believe he can complete his work and I want to show proof that I am a real scientist's wife, that I place my love for science and truth above everything—even above ourselves."

"I want to show that I have confidence with him and in him."

FORMER TREASURER OF SHARON, KNOWN

HERE, AUTO VICTIM

Friends of Sharon's former city treasurer, John B. Lewis, learned today of the misfortune he suffered in downtown Sharon late Monday when an automobile of Farrell driver struck him. Lewis is now in Buell hospital.

Lewis' injuries include head and body bruises and lacerations. While his condition is serious, physicians say he will recover.

Lewis retired as city treasurer there after serving two terms last January.
